A Little History about Nana's...

Let me tell you a little something about Nana...

Her name was Josephine and she was born in 1910 to Italian immigrants Cono and Tilly who lived in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn, New York. She was the fifth of eight children. Their father died at the young age of 42, leaving their mother to raise a large family on her own. From a very young age Nana worked hard to help care for her family. In 1934 she married Anthony and had two children: Frances and Anthony Jr. She stayed in Williamsburg, Brooklyn for the rest of her beautiful life. Nana worked as a seamstress in a clothing factory until she retired, all the while continuing to take care and cook for her family. She overcame many hardships in her life, and no matter what she was kind and giving and could make you laugh better than anyone. Nana was loved by everyone - family and friends alike - because she was very loving and giving of herself. She is still remembered by generations to this day as a fantastic cook and wonderful person. Most of all her, meatballs were out of this world, and you could taste the love with every bite. Hope you can too! Mangia!
